

BUT WAIT, THERE'S MORE!
JUST A LITTLE SOMETHING UNTIL NEXT TIME

DRAG ON LADY DOOR

You see a little bit of everything at MCACN, and last year there was an incredible display of AMC muscle along with some equally incredible AMC memorabilia. You may recall seeing the unused AMC pit crew uniform, circa 1974, that was in MCG last year from the show. For 2019, AMC fanatics Ian Webb and Rich Corsello pulled together another group of historic AMC machines for what was named "The Nash Nutz Invitational" at MCACN, featuring amazing cars and, once again, a display of memorabilia that was nothing short of phenomenal. Highlighting the display were two of Shirley Shahan's original drag car AMC's, her AMX and her 1971 Hornet, and making it better, Shirley herself was there to tell stories from the glory days. What caught our eye, and a lot of others, was this fascinating lone door, still wearing its original paint, off of Shirley's 1971 Hornet, which was sitting right next to it, fully restored and looking just as it did back in '71. We're not sure of the circumstances, but for whatever reason, the original door was replaced and this one was left with its original 1971 paint intact and was displayed with the car, and honestly, it's fantastic to see this kind of history preserved in its original condition, especially when the car it originally came off of is sitting a mere five or six feet away! Kudos to Ian and Rich and all the AMC crew for putting together yet another remarkable display, we can't wait to see what you guys come up with for next year! ✱
